

2019 BC Land Summit November 2018 Update

With less than 175 days until the 2019 BC Land Summit, event organizers are gearing up to deliver a world-class event!

If you are new to the land and land use industry or if you are a seasoned professional who has never experienced this event before, you may have some questions:

What is the BC Land Summit?

Held every five years, the BC Land Summit is the premier collaborative conference providing interdisciplinary education, professional development, and training opportunities for professional practitioners in fields related to land and land-use in British Columbia.

Why should I attend the Summit?

The 2019 BC Land Summit program will be full of rich, diverse and interdisciplinary content related to land and land-use. The program will feature a range of diverse elements, including: inspiring keynote speakers, engaging hands-on workshops, informative panel presentations and breakout sessions, mobile workshop tours 'in the field', and more.

Will there be networking opportunities?

Yes! The BC Land Summit offers a range of professional networking events and opportunities that will further enhance the BC Land Summit program. This year, the BC Land Summit Society also welcomes the support of Allied Partners as key stakeholders in land and land use. As promoters of the event, this will increase awareness and broaden the BC Land Summit community.

Who and what can we expect for the upcoming event?

The Summit will feature two inspiring keynote speakers and an entertaining dinner presenter: Nobel Peace Prize Nominee, Sheila Watt-Cloutier; Harvard University Professor of Economics, Edward Glaeser; and Comedian and Impersonator, Mark Critch. Further program details will be available shortly.

When can I register?

The BC Land Summit organizers are pleased to announce that Extra Early-Bird registration will be available in December 2018. Extra Early-Bird will be launched before regular Early-Bird registration in 2019 and is an opportunity for advanced registration at special rates.

Are there available sponsorship opportunities?

There are a number of available opportunities to support the BC Land Summit. Please contact us if you would like to be an event sponsor or exhibitor.

How can I stay up to date with more information about the event?
